About Dylan

Dylan Pasiuk helps facilitate legislative and regulatory lobbying, research, monitoring and reporting efforts. He has expertise in a variety of client issues facing Congress and the Executive Branch, including healthcare, defense, taxation, renewable energy, consumer products, education, and trade, as well as Congressional investigations. Dylan has experience assisting clients in navigating Capitol Hill and the Executive Branch, drafting advocacy materials and Lobbying Disclosure Act requirements.

Dylan joined the Policy Resolution Group after serving as a national security and health care policy fellow in the Office of Congressman Andy Kim of New Jersey, where he advised the Congressman on issues relating to his work on the House Armed Services Committee. Prior to Capitol Hill, Dylan spent time as the director of programs and congressional engagement at the HillVets Foundation and as a legislative associate at a Washington, DC boutique lobbying firm.
